FAST Study 2.0 Update

Greg Saur, WSP

The FAST 2.0 Study is an effort by NCDOT, in collaboration with various partners across the Triangle region including CAMPO, to study a scalable approach for integrating transit advantage infrastructure along area roadways to support better transit services. The intent is to recommend a series of interconnected corridors throughout the region that would enable a robust transit service to be deployed with reliable and consistent infrastructure that enables reliable and efficient transit services. Greg Saur, the consultant project manager for the study, will update the MPO on the status of the study, the priority corridors they are studying, and the schedule for the study.
